28-31 January 2020

10TH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON SPONTANEOUS COHERENCE IN EXCITONIC SYSTEMS

ARTS CENTRE MELBOURNE AUSTRALIA

icsce10.org

Invitation

For the first time in Australia, the 10th International Conference on Spontaneous Coherence in Excitonic Systems (ICSCE10) is a great opportunity for Australian and international scientists to discuss latest progress in the study of quantum collective phenomena in various kinds of excitations in solids and other physical systems.

ICSCE10 will be hosted at the Arts Centre Melbourne on 28-31 January 2020. Continuing with the ICSCE series with previous conferences held in Edinburgh (ICSCE8 2018) and Montreal (ICSCE9 2019), ICSCE10 will be taking a broader perspective on spontaneous coherence effects, with topics on excitons, novel materials, exciton-polaritons, quantum dots and spontaneous coherence in cold atomic, plasmonic and other systems.

The Conference offers your organisation a valuable opportunity for one-to-one interaction with scientists from around the world. We welcome your participation at this important conference, and we do hope you'll join us.

Kind regards,

ICSCE10 Organising Committee

Elena Ostrovskaya, Australian National University, co-chair

Timothy Liew, Nanyang Technological University Singapore, co-chair

Matthew Davis, University of Queensland

Yuerui Lu, Australian National University

Tich-Lam Nguyen, FLEET

Host Organisation

ARC Centre of Excellence in Future Low-Energy Electronics Technologies (FLEET)

FLEET is developing electronic devices that operate at ultra-low energy, enabling revolutionary new technologies to drive future electronics and computing, while meeting society's demand for reduced energy consumption.

FLEET addresses a grand challenge: reducing the energy used in information and communication technology (ICT), which already accounts for up to 8% of the electricity use on Earth and is doubling every 10 years. The "internet of things" would drive this energy demand even higher. Within a decade, the financial and environmental cost of electricity use will limit the growth of computing. The current, silicon-based technology (CMOS) is 40 years old, and reaching the limits of its efficiency.

FLEET is linking a highly interdisciplinary team of high-profile Australian and international researchers in atomic physics, condensed matter physics, materials science, electronics, nanofabrication and atomically-thin materials.

FLEET's solution will be a new generation of ultra-low energy electronics that will allow computing to continue to grow. FLEET will develop electronic devices in which electrical current can flow with near-zero resistance and dissipation of heat. The work is built on the science of atomically-thin two-dimensional materials and nanofabrication.

Venue

Sitting beneath the iconic spire right in the heart of Victoria's arts precinct, Arts Centre Melbourne brings style, sophistication in art-filled event spaces.

Located in the CBD and only a stone's throw from the Yarra River, Arts Centre Melbourne is not just a defining landmark, it is also Australia's largest performing arts centre. Complimented by local restaurants and bars, extended foyers, open gardens and galleries.

ICSCE10 will be held in the Pavilion and its foyers.

Why Sponsor or Exhibit?

ICSCE10 provides a unique environment, dedicated to bringing 150 international and national scientists working on light-matter interaction in various systems.

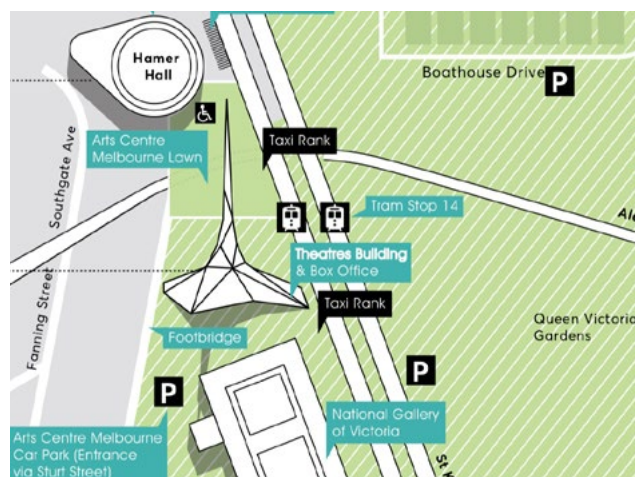

We expect 50% of our delegates to come from Australia and New Zealand and 50% from overseas. The majority are in academia, government or federally funded employment. Typical materials and tools used by delegates are optics, lasers, optical traps, detectors, power supplies, spectroscopy, microscopy, semiconductors, cryostats, and ultrahigh vacuum.

Sponsoring or exhibiting provides an excellent opportunity to promote your organisation to this key audience before, during and after the Conference.

All lunch and break sessions and the poster presentation will be served in the exhibition area to maximise delegates' contact time with exhibitors.

An extensive marketing and communications strategy will be used to promote the Conference providing your organisation with regular and ongoing exposure to target audiences. This strategy will be developed across several channels and include promotion on the Conference website, FLEET monthly e-newsletters to its members and network, direct e-marketing and social media promotion.

Early confirmation of your sponsorship will ensure the highest level of exposure to attendees. A limited number of places will be available within the exhibition so we suggest you confirm your attendance as soon as possible.
